DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see paper #26, filed 4/26/2004, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 11, 14, 15 and 18 under Coviello in view of Heep et al have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Bergen et al (5,046,086).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 11, 14, 15 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello et al (4,631,367) in view of Bergen et al (5,046,086) and further in view of Heep et al (4,996,709).

Consider claims 11 and 15, Coviello et al teach a multi-line KSU-less telephone system having a plurality of telephone for providing paging feature (see abstract) comprising a first telephone initiate a voice message to the plurality of telephones in response to user request; and telephones receive and play the voice message from the first telephone automatically regardless of receiving user action and wherein after playing said voice message, one telephone answering the first telephone initiates two way conversation with a user of the first telephone (col. 5 line 46 – col. 6 line 44).

Coviello et al teach where the first telephone pages all of the telephones of the plurality of telephones. Coviello et al do not suggest where a first telephone of a plurality of telephones for selecting a group of telephones from the plurality of telephones for paging of the group. However, Bergen et al suggested such features (see col. 1 lines 45-55; col. 2 lines 48-58).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to take the KSU selectable group paging feature of Bergen et al and implement into the KSU-less paging feature of Coviello et al in order to lower the cost of having to maintaining a KSU but able to maintain the same features of the KSU.

Coviello et al suggested of using multiplexing technique. Coviello et al did not clearly suggest a half-duplex channel for used in the communications. However, Heep et al teach an intercom system having a speaker portion where communication can be established in half-duplex or full-duplex mode (col. 1 lines 53-55).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize the teaching of Heep et al into view Coviello and Bergen et al in order to provide different modes of communications.

Consider claims 14 and 18, Coviello et al teach the system wherein the two-way communication is initiated by being in an off-hook mode (col. 5 lines 59-67; col. 6 lines 36-39).

4. Claims 12 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello et al (4,631,367) in view of Bergen et al (5,046,086) and Heep et al (4,996,709) and further in view of Core (6,636,595).

Consider claims 12 and 16, Coviello et al did not suggest teach the system wherein at least one of the group telephones comprising a display for providing an identification number of the first telephone. However, Core suggested such (abstract). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teaching of Core into view of Coviello, Bergen and Heep et al in order to provide information to the called party thereby enable the called party to decide whether to accept the call or not.

5. Claims 13 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coviello et al (4,631,367) in view of Bergen et al (5,046,086) and Heep et al (4,996,709) and further in view of Kruger et al (5,768,344).

Consider claims 13 and 17, Coviello et al did not suggest wherein the voice message is automatically terminated at a predetermined period. However, Kruger et al suggested a telephone device for receiving calls wherein the telephone includes a watchdog timer for terminating the line after a predetermined period of time (col. 2 lines 50-55). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teaching of Kruger et al into view of Coviello, Bergen and Heep et al order to end the communications session.
